Review

"...A dark carnival of delectable delights. Without doubt, the finest collection of it's kind that I have seen. --
Otis P. Driftwood, Editor, Scoundrel Magazine

"More fun than a lead life-preserver. I didn't look at my wife for weeks. I still can't." -- Howard B. Zoots
Curator, Zoots Gallery, Los Angeles

"Worth its' weight in used pasties and sequined panties." -- F. Loophole, former Pres. National Socialite Club
From the Author

Out from moldy forgotten places crawl Sex Cats! The photographs in this book come from the golden age of girly photography; the 1950s to the 1960's. This was a time when a thirst for the filthy was fulfilled by the delightfully alluring, and not the gratuitous.

The pictures in this book come from a time in European and American culture when the overtly vulgar was not only considered obscene, but illegal. It was not until the 1970's that the repeal of various laws led to to the more explicit smut that is recognized as pornography today.

The simple knowledge of the functions of a camera and a darkroom enabled a person to embark on a lucrative business. The photographers that made up the adult industry were as diverse as the notorious crime photographer Weegee to fine artists Sid Kaplan and Lou Haig. The most infamous of these early girly photographers was the notorious Carl Miranda; maker of the film Ubangi Lust and member of the legendary National Socialite Club.

The loosening of censorship laws and the advent of new technical processes brought about the demise of the era of classic girly photography.

These images exist today for the same reasons that they were created; for admirers of the seductive and unusual.
